LOUIS MOUSSET— PRESTIGE CHATEAUNEUF-DU-PAPE

(Southern Rhone Valley, France)

In the heart of the Southern Rhone Valley, Chateauf-neuf-du-Pape is one of the most prestigious appellations. It became famous when the Popes decided in the XIII Century to establish their summer residences in the village. They were the first to develop the vineyard and turn it into a thriving business.

Grape Varieties: They are very ancient and rich since 13 official varieties are allowed: Grenach, Syrah, Mouvedre, Cinsault, Bourboulenc and the commonest: Picpoul, Muscadin, Terret noir, Cunoise, Vaccarese, Picardan, Clairette and Roussanne otherwise.

This vinetard produces very typical red wines full of character, racy, well-balanced, with persistent aromas of spices and red fruit, long in the mouth, with a beautiful, bright ruby color.

Available at: HEB (Trenton), RGV Liqour, Alhambra, Frida's Grill, La Fogata and Alhambra

CYAN PRESTIGIO

Toro (Spain)

Cyan Prestigio retains the power of Toro wines, but it has the elegance that Matarromera includes in all its wines.

It has a dark cherry red color, and It is very intense, bright and clean. It has powerful aromas of black fruit and fine touches of toasty oak. On the palate it is fleshy, with ripe tannins and perfect fruit-barrel assembly.

American Airlines chooses this wine from Group Matarromera for the passengers travelling in First Class and Business Class

Available at , Alhambra, Feldmans, and Sahadis.

Ribera Del Duero, It is a Denominación de Origen (DO) located in the country's northern plateau and is one of nine wine regions within the autonomous community of Castile and Leon. It is also one of several recognized wine-producing regions to be found along the course of the Duero river.

PAGO DE CARRAOVEJAS

Ribera Del Duero, (Spain) 100% Tempranillo

Established by Segovian restaurateur and sommelier Jose Maria Ruiz, Bodegas Pago de Carraovejas has become one of the crown jewels of Ribera del Duero wines. Jose Maria's insistence on excellence has driven these wines onto the "must have" list of all quality restaurants in Spain. Only 10% of production is exported. Every vintage quickly sells out and allocations are becoming more difficult to come by. Our clients have been lucky enough to obtain a small amount of the recent vintages

Available at: Holiday Wine & Liquor and Alhambra

PROTOS CRIANZA 2006

Ribera Del Duero, (Spain) 100% Tempranillo

The waiting period to enjoy this wine is 24 months. 12 months in American and French oak barrel and another 12 in its own bottle.

Bigarreau cherry red with purple overtones. A bouquet of ripe fruit aromas with toasted oak notes. The taste reminds you of a hundred things, but what is most incredible is the sensation it leaves in the mouth.

Protos Crianza 2006 has been awarded Great Gold Medal and chosen the best wine in this category at the Concours Mondial de Bruxelles. (The best red wine selected from the 6289 wines from 54 producing countries competed in 2009)

Bordeaux

The name Bordeaux derives from Au bord de l'eau, Meaning along the waters. Bordeaux, the word alone fires the mind with the anticipation of greatness. No other wine region is more powerful, more commercially clever, or more important as a source of profoundly complex, age worthy wines. Bordeaux lies along the path of three important rivers; the mighty Gironde, plus two rivers that feed it, the Dordogne and the Garonne. Serious wine-making began in Bordeaux with the Romans. When Henry II of England married Eleanor of Aquitaine, and Bordeaux became for 300 years what in sometimes still seems to be –a part of the British Isles. Richard Coeur de Lion regularly drank wine from Bordeaux and, under King John; the region's merchants were encouraged to send their barrels to England by an exemption from export tax.

Today Bordeaux is the largest and most successful wine-growing region in France. It is a symbol and model for the whole world of wine. Bordeaux is divided into multiple smaller sub-regions and smaller appellations. Generally speaking the smaller the appellation; the finer the wine. In the finer wines the appellation is what appears on the label as opposed to the label saying it is from Bordeaux. Neither the sub-region nor the region of Bordeaux appears in the finer wines label.

The elite wines, which have established the fame of the Bordeaux region, have labels marked under Appellation d'Origine Contrôlée (AOC). This means the wine comes from the Appellation where the label says it does, and is made from the approved grapes and viticultural practices (AOC Saint-Émilion, AOC Pessac-Leognan, AOC Pauillac AOC Margaux and AOC Pomerol).

CHATEAU BUSQUET

, Lussac-Saint-Emilion, (Bordeaux France)

50% Merlot, 40% Cabernet Franc, 10% Cabernet Sauvignon

The vineyard is made up of different parcels around the Château, on limestone soil. Vinification in stainless steel vats lasts between 20 and 30 days according to the vintage, to produce fruity, aromatic wines. Aged in oak barrels during one year. The wines are well balanced, without excessive tannin, for drinking young.

Available at: HEB (Trenton & 10th), Lansky & Brats, La Fogata, Frida's Grill & Cantina, RGV Liquor

CHÂTEAU LE CASTELET

POMEROL (Bordeaux , France)

The Vineyard: One hectare of Merlot, of four different clones, are planted on sandy gravel soil. Already it has been interesting to see how each different type reacts and research here is helping with replanting at other vineyards belonging to the Robin Family.

Available at: Capellini Ristorante, Sahadi's, and Fiorella

CHÂTEAU MOUTON ROTHSCHILD

With the Liberation of France, to celebrate the return of the peace and to mark a new beginning, Baron Philippe conceived the idea of dedicating the vintage of 1945, one of the greatest of the century, to 'Année de la Victoire, the year of the Victory. He commissioned the young painter Philippe Jullian to produce a graphic design based on the "V" sign made famous by Winston Churchill during the war.

That exception became the rule, and from 1946 on a contemporary artist was commissioned every year to create an original work to illustrate the label. The relationship between the artists and the owners of Mouton has always been based on friendship and trust. But also on mutual independence. Every artist is at liberty, following his own inspiration, to interpret the themes of the vine, the pleasure of drinking or the symbol of the Ram. Mouton is equally at liberty to reject a work if they consider it is not what they want or if it fails to fit the specific limitations of the label. The artists are paid no money for their work, but given instead a certain number of cases of wine of two different years, obviously including the year they provided the label.

Since Baron Philippe's death in 1988, Philippine, the Baron's only daughter, has become wholly involved in Mouton and the family firm. It has become her responsibility to choose the painter to illustrate the Mouton Rothschild label
